

Get ready now for fall projects!

First workshop in series of two (coming in the fall: hands-on restoration field practices)

Nuts & Bolts of Restoration and Revegetation Using Grasses and Graminoids

July 21, 2017 – 9:30 am to 4:30 pm

Training Room, Winters Fire Department, 700 Main Street, Winters

Fees: $150/CNGA Members, $175/Non-members, $95/Students w ID

The objective of this full-day classroom course will acquaint landowners, land managers, agency personnel, contractors, consultants, and others with proven techniques and strategies for restoration and revegetation using native grassland species. This workshop will help you plan your fall projects.

Experienced experts will cover topics including:

- Site evaluation
- Species selection
- Site preparation
- Planting techniques
- Weed control
- Long-term management

Instructors:

JP Marié, U.C. Davis Putah Creek Riparian Reserve
 Chris Rose, Solano County RCD
 Bryan Young, Sacramento Regional Wastewater, Bufferland
 Patrick Reynolds, Hedgerow Farms

At the end of the course, individuals who are planning, implementing, or managing native grassland projects should be able to apply many of the techniques and strategies learned in the course.
